

A MILLION STORIES

REFUGEE WEEK 2026

SCHOOL CREATIVE COMPETITION

About the Competition

To mark Refugee Week 2026, Jesuit Refugee Service (JRS) Australia invites school students to take part in a creative competition responding to this year's Refugee Week theme:

“A MILLION STORIES”

As Europe recovered from the devastation of World War II, Australia responded to an international call to offer a future to people with nowhere to call home. Since that initial agreement in 1947 to receive 4000 refugees from Europe, Australia has issued one million permanent humanitarian visas.

That's one million people who fled danger and found safety here. One million journeys of courage and hope. One million new beginnings in Australia.

But this isn't just about a number. Behind each visa is a person with a story – someone who left everything behind to find safety, who showed incredible strength, and who has helped build the Australia we know today.

Each story is unique. Each one is powerful.

Think about it: one person's arrival creates a ripple effect. They have children. Those children have children. They start businesses, become doctors and teachers, create art, play sport, and contribute to their communities. One person's story becomes many stories, woven together like colourful threads in a beautiful tapestry.

Through art, writing, and storytelling, students are invited to reflect on these stories, celebrate Australia's refugee legacy, and consider how we can continue to build a compassionate and welcoming Australia.

Who can Participate?

- The competition is open to all students from Kindergarten – Year 12

Theme Guidance

Students are asked to respond creatively to the theme 'A Million Stories' by exploring ideas such as:

- The journey of a refugee or person seeking asylum
- How one person's story can shape families, communities, and future generations
- Australia's history of welcoming people from around the world
- Belonging, kindness, diversity, community, safety, hope and dignity
- How young people can show solidarity and help everyone feel like they belong

JRS Australia is committed to dignity, respect, and ethical storytelling. We ask that all participating students and schools ensure that:

- Refugees and people seeking asylum are represented with respect and humanity
- Stories avoid stereotypes, sensationalism, or dehumanising language
- If a real person's story is referenced, it is done sensitively and with consent. We recommend referring to people anonymously, unless explicit permission has been given
- Submissions focus on strength, resilience, and shared humanity, not only suffering

Teachers are encouraged to guide students in thoughtful discussions about language, power, and representation.

Creating your Submission

1

Research

Begin by learning more about the theme “A Million Stories”. This might include exploring Australia’s history of welcoming refugees and people seeking asylum, learning about the experiences of people who have been forced to flee their homes, or reflecting on stories of belonging and community.

2

Create

Using your research and imagination, create an original piece of work that responds to the theme “A Million Stories.” Your submission may take the form of visual art, writing, or video, as outlined in the “Submission Categories”. Students are encouraged to interpret the theme creatively and in their own voice. Remember creativity and originality will be rewarded!

3

Reflect

Students are encouraged to include a short reflection (maximum 5 sentences) to accompany their submission. The reflection might explain what inspired the work, how it connects to the theme “A Million Stories”, or what the student learned or thought about while creating it. The reflection will help the judges better understand the student’s ideas, intentions, and creative process. Parents or teachers may assist younger students to write or record their reflection, using the student’s own words.
